

MEMPHIS APPEAL

MONDAY MORNING, JUNE 17, 1872.

DEMOCRATIC EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

There will be a meeting of the Democratic State Executive Committee in this city, at eleven o'clock in the morning, on Wednesday, June 19th.

JOHN C. BURCH, Chairman.

HOW FOR THE COUNTY CONVENTION.

On Saturday last the people of Shelby county elected their delegates to the Nominating Convention to be held in this city on Thursday next.

The large vote polled indicates that the popular masses are aroused. This mode of selecting delegates inaugurates a new era in the politics of Shelby county.

Formerly, the delegates were selected by packed meetings in the interest of unscrupulous rings; but the convention on Thursday will be represented by men fresh from the people themselves, and as honest men, will faithfully carry out the wishes of their constituents.

In looking over the list of delegates reported, we find the names of our most reliable citizens--men who cannot be bought and sold, and whose only ambition is to see the interests of the honest citizens who will make faithful and efficient officers.

The old convention system now abandoned, was generally represented by unreliable men manipulated by designing demagogues who cared nothing for the interests of the tax-paying people.

The delegates elected by the people on Saturday engage in a hard-fought battle, and we believe the delegates elected on Saturday last will repeat with indignation and scorn any combination to barter out the offices and the responsibility of the State.

One thing is sure, a heavy responsibility devolves upon the delegates, and the people are watching them. Those who have clothed them with power, call upon them to be faithful to the high trust confided to them.

The people expect them to act for the public good, without fear, favor, or affection--to select good men as candidates, and able men to choose those who best deserve and who will serve most worthily, most usefully, and most advantageously the true interests of the county.

To nominate any other sort of men would serve to denigrate the impossibility of organizing a convention, purified of corruption, duplicity, intrigue and chicanery.

So far as the appeal is concerned, it has no candidates. We have taken no part in the selection of delegates, not even casting a vote for any of the various tickets. We know not and care not who will be nominated, so they are competent and honest men.

We have taken no part in the selection of candidates; but with the nominations our labors begin, and we sincerely hope will be continued, with our regular defense, will lead our banner to victory. Let the delegates remember that the offices belong to the people; that they are not created to reward deserving individuals, but for the public good.

The convention to be held on Thursday next is looked for with impatient interest throughout the county. The people are anxious to know definitely who are to lead them as standard-bearers in the great triumph which will certainly be achieved on the first Thursday in August next, provided the deliberations of the nominating convention be harmonious.

The heart of the Conservative masses, who have rallied to the election of Greeley to crush out national Radicalism and the last vestige of Radicalism in Shelby county, beats high with that confidence of strength and success which incites victorious efforts under such circumstances.

Who can doubt that the delegates on Thursday next--the men who, in so small measure, hold in their hands the destiny of our party for years--will, by the wisdom and sagacity of their course, approve themselves worthy of their high mission?

Let them select men whose names will form a rallying cry fitted to stir the people to their duty, and which will call the whole people, regardless of the party to which they belong, to the aid of the people who pay the taxes and are growing under the load of taxes which these Radicalism have transmitted to them.

Every aspirant before the convention on Wednesday next, has, unhesitatingly and unqualifiedly, agreed to abide by its behests and to give cordial and ungrudging support to its nominees. The men who submit their names to the convention are recognized as gentlemen whose word is as good as their bond, and we feel assured that they will not be found afeared to betray the great cause they profess to love and cherish.

But we understand the Radicals will have a full ticket in the field, composed, partly, of purchased rascals, whose disreputable names and lust for office would induce them to sell themselves and their party. If there be a Democratic or Conservative in Shelby county so lost to all feelings of self-respect, all sense of shame, all pride of character, and so destitute of all manliness as to lend his disreputable name to the creatures who voted to disfranchise the tax-paying people while robbing them, they will deserve that disgrace which will forever bring their names to the blush. We trust that those who are tempted by the seductive wiles of the knaves who propose to use them, will reflect before they consent to occupy that position of undignified infamy, and cover themselves with that eternal stain of dishonor which will never be able to be done away.

LEWIS' PARK.

In another place we present a remonstrance signed by many excellent gentlemen, who protest against the purchase by the city of the abandoned Lewis Cemetery on Main street, near the depot of the Memphis and Tennessee railroad.

The terms of sale defined by Captain Lewis are wholly unbecomingly, by the terms of the remonstrance, and his purpose is certainly mischievous. It is stated that the city is not able to pay the interest on her present indebtedness or for the opening of streets, which as eligible public uses may be obtained for one-fourth the cost of that; twice the real value of the property is secured by the vendors of the lot, but terms better property for the same purposes may be secured. Such, substantially, are alleged objections to the proposed scheme. It happens that the vendors of the lot do not ask either the present interest on the one hundred thousand dollars until after five years have passed when interest, six per cent, will be paid, but then enable it to pay six thousand dollars per annum to maintain the cemetery. It will be utterly bankrupt and unable to pay the cost of its own wretched existence. Whatever may happen, whenever the Elmwood cemetery is filled with the dead of our day, those who live after it must maintain its fencing, its walks and trees and charming drives. For this purpose a perpetually increasing sum of money must be provided to be created, and therefore, instead of selling the cemetery, Captain Lewis would execute a lease to the city for nine hundred and ninety-nine years, the city holding it in trust for the benefit of the cemetery. This lease is to be applied to a purpose which must benefit prevent the exaction of taxes from us, or from our children. If the city be not able within five years, to pay six thousand dollars per annum for the cemetery, the city's liability is not increased by this proposed contract. The lot to be leased for nine hundred and ninety-nine years is four hundred and five feet square. The city's bonds are worth fifty cents, and in these bonds one hundred thousand dollars or fifty thousand dollars in money is required to be paid. The property has already cost Captain Lewis and his associates six thousand dollars, ten thousand more than the city is asked to pay for it, and at the end of five years, when the city's interest against the lot would begin, the outlay of the Elmwood Company would be seventy-eight thousand dollars in money. If the city's bonds be worth no more five years hence than to-day, the company will be less than the amount of twenty-eight thousand dollars. At auction, subdivided into lots of one acre each, the property would produce for Captain Lewis two hundred thousand dollars. But we will recur to this subject. The remonstrance was designed to excite opposition to a scheme which bears the name of the city, and which will be conducted in the name of the city. There is no special interest sought to be done--no profit arises to any individual; the city and its taxpayers are the ultimate beneficiaries of the transaction, and just now, for the most part, the city is in a state of bankruptcy, and for many public purposes, there is an imperative need for the property located as this is. It costs the people the least sum possible, and it can be shown that the city's representatives were continually warring when they approved propositions contemplating the creation of Lewis' Park.

The New York Express (Democratic) is much displeased with Mr. Greeley because of his high tariff proclivities. But the president doesn't make tariffs. Congress does, and with Greeley will come in a Congress that will set right all wrong things in the tariff. Half a loaf is better than no bread, and if Greeley is high tariff, Greeley is low enough, with a vote to give in the Senate, which Greeley will not have. But this New York snappers mean only this, we suppose--that is, Greeley may possibly be a man of sense, and Adams be put on too late--too late for all that. Besides, after that Adams' letter--a very, very silly letter for a sensible man--his nomination by a Democratic convention bears utterly impossible. Mr. Adams, unless he should have a very high body and nothing but himself, Mr. Greeley, on the contrary, in a very able letter, not only accepts the Cincinnati platform, but so expounds it as to make it satisfactory to all Democrats in the land. Then all the Democratic conventions, with the exception of little Delaware, have settled upon Greeley from and after consultation with Democrats.

A SPECIAL from Washington says that the Democratic opponents of Mr. Greeley in Washington have been quietly scheming and planning for some time, and have had great hopes of success until very lately. The action of the State Democratic Conventions held in Kansas, Florida, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa and Wisconsin, has completely overwhelmed them, and they are forced to admit that there is a stampede of the Democratic party to Mr. Greeley. They feel now that the cause is hopeless for them, unless they can get Mr. Greeley to withdraw, and of this they admit they are very full of doubt. It is beyond all doubt that Maryland and Virginia will send delegates to Mr. Greeley to Baltimore.

Some of the London papers, commenting on the boat-race on the Thames Monday, speak of the routing of the Alabama as not good enough to win a country race. General David N. Stanton, late Colonel of the 1st Kentucky Cavalry, Baltimore, has been indicted for embezzlement of government funds, and was ordered to be held in twenty-five thousand dollars' bond.

A Parisian named M. Duprat recently became blind in one eye and in a very singular way. He indulged himself with a stinky starched shirt, when the edge of the starch cut into his eye and he blundered on.

The million, four hundred and twenty thousand eight hundred and fifty pounds of great powder, known as Dutch Jack, California, yesterday.

Mr. Greeley's famous old white coat is of Irish extraction, and cost him twenty dollars. He said to be the most serviceable garment ever made. After wearing it thirty years without patching, Mr. Greeley lost sight of it.

John Russell Young, whose departure for Europe was recently noted, takes the position of London correspondent of the New York Herald, at a salary of eight thousand dollars a year, holding the same position in London that Mr. Smalley of the Tribune holds.

Ohio the second of the great cheese producing States of the Union. During the year 1870 the cheese product of Ohio was forty-one million three hundred and thirty-seven thousand and thirty-eight pounds, and that of butter forty-three million one hundred and twenty thousand five hundred and fifty-four pounds and fifty-four pounds.

Mr. Thompson is a member of the committee which is collecting books and works of art to help the towns-people of the Memphis and Tennessee railroad. The terms of sale defined by Captain Lewis are wholly unbecomingly, by the terms of the remonstrance, and his purpose is certainly mischievous.

The National in one of its shrewdly philosophical moods, says: "People say that they are not interested in the debt or interest on the opening of streets, which as eligible public uses may be obtained for one-fourth the cost of that; twice the real value of the property is secured by the vendors of the lot, but terms better property for the same purposes may be secured. Such, substantially, are alleged objections to the proposed scheme.
